LEA Profile

Mastery Charter School Mann Elementary is a turnaround school based on the model developed by Mastery Charter High School -- Lenfest Campus (founded in 2001). Mastery's mission is to prepare urban youth for success in higher education and the global economy. Mastery Charter was selected by the Mann Elementary Renaissance School Advisory Council for complete restart in May 2010. Mann is now a K-6 school in the Wynnefield section of the city, having added grade 6 in fall 2011.

Since May 2010, the Mastery network and school-level leadership team and parents have worked together to refine and implement the plan now in place for turning around this once failing school into a high-performing elementary school. We have received positive reviews for the initial changes and data regarding student progress.

The turnaround has been very successful. Before the turnaround there was a significant disparity between Mann test scores in Reading and Math and the state average. The school has shown strong PSSA growth, attendance, student retention, behavior/reduction in violence, increase in parent participation, and reading level growth K-2.

Local Assessment

English Language Arts

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for ELA projects proficiency for 28% of students on the PSSA, which is would be a 10 point increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 18% proficiency.	The projected increase in proficiency is encouraging. It suggests current strategies are driving improvement, and sustaining them should lead to a continued increase in achievement.
Only 45% of students met the MAP Conditional Growth Percentile threshold in ELA. While this fell short of our goal of 55% of students, it represented an increase over the rate of 29% of students in the prior year.	Knowledge that students are demonstrating increased growth bolsters the approach of continuing current strategies to drive improvement.

English Language Arts Summary

Strengths

Implementation of the Amplify CKLA K-8 Curriculum

Challenges

Continuing to increase student growth on local benchmark assessments

Mathematics

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for math projects a proficiency rate of 5%, no meaningful increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 4%.	While the continued low proficiency rate in math indicates a need for sustained intervention in math achievement.
51% of students met the MAP Conditional Growth Percentile threshold in math, approaching our goal of 55% of students. This was also a notable increase over the prior year rate of 38%.	Knowledge that students are demonstrating increased growth bolsters the approach of continuing current strategies to drive improvement.

Students with IEPs continue to lag significantly behind their general education peers in proficiency on ELA PSSAs.
The local MAP benchmark data for math projects proficiency for 1% of students with disabilities on the PSSA, which would represent a slight increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 0% proficiency.	Students with IEPs continue to lag significantly behind their general education peers in proficiency on math PSSAs.
74% of students made 80% or more progress on their annual IEP goals by the end of the school year, closely approaching the goal of 75%.	While significantly fewer students with IEPs demonstrate proficiency on state assessments than their general education peers, most are making substantial progress on the achievement goals set by their IEP teams.

Analyzing (Strengths and Challenges)

Analyzing Challenges

Analyzing Challenges	Discussion Points	Check for Priority
Percent Proficient/Advanced in English Language Arts/Literature	Proficiency in ELA was at 18%, significantly lower than the 2019 rate of 44%. Our root cause hypothesis is that the decline is a result of learning loss related to the COVID-19 pandemic including lost instructional time, ineffective remote instruction, increased student absences, and related trauma. One year back in the classroom full time has not been enough to recover lost ground.	True
Percent Proficient/Advanced in Mathematics/Algebra 1	Proficiency in math was only 4% when it had been 26% in 2019. Our root cause hypothesis is that the decline is a result of learning loss related to the COVID-19 pandemic including lost instructional time, ineffective remote instruction, increased student absences, and related trauma. One year back in the classroom full time has not been enough to recover lost ground.	True
Meaningful two-way communication with parents/guardians	Parents need to have meaningful communication with the school regarding the academic performance of their children. Many parents believe their student's academic achievement is stronger than it actually is. When empowered with a stronger ongoing understanding of a child's performance, parents can be more meaningful partners in increasing achievement.	True
Lower proficiency rates for special education students than regular education counterparts	Our hypothesis is that in addition to the specially designed instruction and related services that students with IEPs receive, they also need more intensive academic intervention in core academic subjects across the board.	False
