LEA Profile

Pickett serves about 900 students in grades 6-12, most of whom are from the Germantown community and qualify for free and reduced lunch. Pickett strives to be a structured, high-achieving beacon of the community where students love to learn and staff love to work. Everything we do is to realize that vision. We prioritize building relationships, promoting social skills, and employ restorative practices. We drive conceptual understanding and procedural mastery; we balance cooperative learning with individual practice. We prepare students for post-secondary success as well as high-stakes testing in tested subjects while still offering student choice in enrichment classes and offering social-emotional learning, art, technology, music, and physical education classes, social justice courses, and college- and career-readiness courses. Every student receives an individualized schedule catered to their needs with course rigor levels spanning across levels including remedial, grade level, honors, Advanced Placement, and dual enrollment.

Mission and Vision

Mission

All students learn the academic and personal skills they need to be truly prepared for postsecondary success and able to pursue their dreams.

Local Assessment

English Language Arts

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for ELA projects proficiency for 23% of students on the PSSA, an increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 16% proficiency.	The local data projecting an increase in proficiency rate is hopefully a sign of progress in ELA achievement.
50% of students met the MAP Conditional Growth Percentile threshold in ELA, up from 45% the prior year but falling short of the goal of 55% of students.	In order to continue improving achievement, we will need to drive strong growth in ELA.

English Language Arts Summary

Strengths

Implementation of the Amplify CKLA K-8; Springboard 9-12 curriculum

Challenges

Continuing to increase student growth on local benchmark assessments

Mathematics

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for math projects proficiency for 4% of students on the PSSA, which would be slight increase from the prior year PSSA rate of 2% proficiency.	While the projected increase in proficiency rate is hopefully a sign of progress, the overall low rate indicates a need for sustained intervention in math achievement.
58% of students met the MAP Conditional Growth Percentile threshold in math, surpassing the goal of 55% of students and up from 51% the prior year.	Given the low proficiency rates in math, it is encouraging to see a strong indication of growth.

Mathematics Summary

Strengths

Implementation of the Eureka Math Curriculum

Challenges

Continuing to increase student growth on local benchmark assessments

Science, Technology, and Engineering Education

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
No local benchmark data was collected in science.	A lack of benchmark data limited the scope of analysis. We plan to implement science benchmarks to remedy this going forward.

Equity Considerations

English Learners

True This student group is not a focus in this plan.

Students with Disabilities

False This student group is not a focus in this plan.

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for ELA projects proficiency for 10% of students with disabilities on the PSSA, even with the prior year PSSA rate of 10% proficiency.	Students with IEPs continue to lag significantly behind their general education peers in proficiency on ELA PSSAs.
The local MAP benchmark data for math projects proficiency for 0% of students with disabilities on the PSSA, even with the prior year PSSA rate of 0% proficiency.	Students with IEPs continue to lag significantly behind their general education peers in proficiency on math PSSAs.
80% of students made 80% or more progress on their annual IEP goals by the end of the school year, exceeding the goal of 75%.	While significantly fewer students with IEPs demonstrate proficiency on state assessments than their general education peers, most are making substantial progress on the achievement goals set by their IEP teams.

Analyzing (Strengths and Challenges)

Analyzing Challenges

Analyzing Challenges	Discussion Points	Check for Priority
Percent Proficient/Advanced in English Language Arts/Literature	Although our proficiency rate increased over the prior year rate, it remained notably lower than the state average. Our root cause hypothesis is that this gap results primarily from missed opportunities for rigorous, standards-based core content instruction in recent years, exacerbated by factors including chronic absenteeism, adverse effects of trauma, and structural inequities facing students and families.	True
Percent Proficient/Advanced in Mathematics/Algebra 1	Although our proficiency rate increased over the prior year rate, it remained notably lower than the state average. Our root cause hypothesis is that this gap results primarily from missed opportunities for rigorous, standards-based core content instruction in recent years, exacerbated by factors including chronic absenteeism, adverse effects of trauma, and structural inequities facing students and families.	True
Meaningful two-way academic communication with parents/guardians	Parents need to have meaningful communication with the school regarding the academic performance of their children. Many parents believe their student's academic achievement is stronger than it actually is. When empowered with a stronger ongoing understanding of a child's performance, parents can be more meaningful partners in increasing achievement.	True
Lower proficiency rates for special education students than regular education counterparts	Our hypothesis is that in addition to the specially designed instruction and related services that students with IEPs receive, they also need more intensive academic intervention in core academic subjects across the board.	False
