LEA Profile

Prep Elementary was founded in 2018 as a free, public charter school in North Philadelphia. We offer children academic excellence in a fun, joyful environment. From math to music and reading to field trips, our students receive a well-rounded education from loving teachers and leaders. In addition to academics, we focus on five core values: respect, responsibility, hard work, teamwork and kindness.

We are a K-6 school. Prep Elementary students have the opportunity to attend Gratz Prep Middle and Simon Gratz High, giving them the full K-12 Mastery experience.

Mastery Prep Elementary fosters joy, kindness, resiliency and teamwork for our scholars' academic and character success. We eradicate the opportunity gap with a transformational educational experience for all students.

Local Assessment

English Language Arts

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
51% of students met the MAP Conditional Growth Percentile threshold in ELA, up from 47% the prior year.	Hopefully sustained growth is an indication of future gains in achievement if our interventions continue to work.
The local MAP benchmark data for ELA projects proficiency for 40% of students on the PSSA, a significant increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 23% proficiency.	The local data projecting an increase in proficiency rate is hopefully a sign of progress in ELA achievement.

English Language Arts Summary

Strengths

Implementation of the Amplify CKLA K-6 curriculum
---

Challenges

Continuing to increase student growth on local benchmark assessments
--

Mathematics

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for math projects proficiency for 13% of students on the PSSA, which would be an increase from the prior year PSSA rate of 5% proficiency.	While the projected increase in proficiency rate is hopefully a sign of progress, the overall low rate indicates a need for sustained intervention in math achievement.
An impressive 67% of students met the MAP Conditional Growth Percentile threshold in math, surpassing the goal of 55% of students and significantly up from 40% the prior year.	Given the low proficiency rates in math, it is encouraging to see such an incredibly strong indication of growth.

Equity Considerations

English Learners

True This student group is not a focus in this plan.

Students with Disabilities

False This student group is not a focus in this plan.

Data	Comments/Notable Observations
The local MAP benchmark data for ELA projects proficiency for 20% of students with disabilities on the PSSA, which would represent an increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 3% proficiency.	Students with IEPs continue to lag significantly behind their general education peers in proficiency on ELA PSSAs.
The local MAP benchmark data for math projects proficiency for 5% of students with disabilities on the PSSA, which would represent an increase over the prior year PSSA rate of 0% proficiency.	Students with IEPs continue to lag significantly behind their general education peers in proficiency on math PSSAs.
81% of students made 80% or more progress on their annual IEP goals by the end of the school year, exceeding the goal of 75%.	While significantly fewer students with IEPs demonstrate proficiency on state assessments than their general education peers, most are making substantial progress on the achievement goals set by their IEP teams.

Analyzing (Strengths and Challenges)

Analyzing Challenges

Analyzing Challenges	Discussion Points	Check for Priority
Percent Proficient/Advanced in English Language Arts/Literature	Although our proficiency rate increased over the prior year rate, it remained notably lower than the state average. Our root cause hypothesis is that this gap results primarily from missed opportunities for rigorous, standards-based core content instruction in recent years, exacerbated by factors including chronic absenteeism, adverse effects of trauma, and structural inequities facing students and families.	True
Percent Proficient/Advanced in Mathematics/Algebra 1	Although our proficiency rate increased over the prior year rate, it remained notably lower than the state average. Our root cause hypothesis is that this gap results primarily from missed opportunities for rigorous, standards-based core content instruction in recent years, exacerbated by factors including chronic absenteeism, adverse effects of trauma, and structural inequities facing students and families.	True
Lower proficiency rates for special education students than regular education counterparts	Our hypothesis is that in addition to the specially designed instruction and related services that students with IEPs receive, they also need more intensive academic intervention in core academic subjects across the board.	False
Meaningful two-way communication with parents/guardians	Parents need to have meaningful communication with the school regarding the academic performance of their children. Many parents believe their student's academic achievement is stronger than it actually is. When empowered with a stronger ongoing understanding of a child's performance, parents can be more meaningful partners in increasing achievement.	True
